AAF Joins FEI Boston as Chapter Partner

AAF is excited to announce its new partnership with the Boston Chapter of Financial Executives International (FEI), the preeminent professional association of financial executives. The Boston Chapter is one of the largest chapters, with over 700 members representing more than 650 organizations in greater Boston and throughout New England.

“This partnership is a great opportunity for AAF to further engage CFOs,” said David McManus, CPA, Co-Managing Partner, Alexander Aronson Finning CPAs. “We advise sophisticated companies with complex business models, and AAF shares the same concerns as the FEI membership. The CFOs of many of our New England-based clients are members, including the Chapter President, Susan Gorman from the New England School of Acupuncture.”

AAF is truly excited about this partnership with FEI-Boston. Their specialized audit, tax and performance controls expertise will help FEI to provide the highest quality educational programs, academic scholarships to the best and brightest, and support for fellow members who are transitioning to their next employment opportunity.

“The important role of the CFO is growing in significance and is getting increasingly complex,” said Carla McCall, CPA, Co-Managing Partner, Alexander Aronson Finning CPAs. “CFOs are advising on critical areas such as profitability, leadership, regulation, health care, cybersecurity, talent development and global risk. They need a comfortable venue like FEI to engage in meaningful dialogue, talk openly about what’s going on and stay connected to peers.”

AAF considers the FEI group as truly unique, comprised of remarkable CFOs that are achieving great things for their organizations. This is why they truly value this peer network and the important, lifelong connections and friendships they make.

“FEI is the association of choice among leaders in the financial community and Alexander Aronson Finning CPAs is excited to participate in this group renowned for interaction, information, influence and integrity,” adds McManus.
